

What to consider when choosing an aparthotel: checklist

Access to transportation

Major transport hubs like airports, train lines, or bus routes are an important consideration, depending on location. You should consider somewhere that offers easy access to wider areas if needed.

Location

Consider proximity to the workplace where you will be based, or favour an area with easy access to meeting venues and offices or conference centres. This will minimise your commute times and help to maximise your productivity.

Nearby facilities

Look for aparthotels that are close to cafes, restaurants, and food shops if you want to cater for yourself. You should also think about any other essential facilities you might want such as fitness or leisure centres and open spaces.

Amenities

Consider things like high-speed Wi-Fi, a kitchenette, and laundry facilities. There are some additional amenities that are nice to have but are not essential, such as a dedicated workspace, fitness centre, meeting room, and on-site restaurant, although these could certainly enhance your stay.

Length of stay

Choose an aparthotel that offers flexible options for length of stay especially if you might need to change your dates. They cater very well for short-term business trips but for longer stays or extended assignments we always recommend serviced apartments because they are more suitable in terms of extra space and facilities.

Reviews and ratings

Online reviews and ratings from other business travellers will give you an idea of the quality of an aparthotel. Look for reviews about issues that are most likely to impact business travellers such as reliable Wi-Fi and functionality of workspaces.

Budget

Decide on your budget and then let the Situ experts do a property search to look at all your aparthotel options, negotiate rates for you, and find the best value for money based on your requirements. Things you may wish to factor into your final decision are amenities that are included and any additional fees that may be incurred during your stay. The best aparthotels will have the right balance between quality and affordability.